STUDENT BIOGRAPHIES

AUTHOR'S NOTE

Information in this volume was secured directly from the students whose writeups appear. Biographical material received after printing of regular alphabetical sections may be found at the conclusion. Information is as complete as it was possible to secure through the mails; the biographical section contains writeups of at least ninety-eight percent of the students originally accepted by the organization.

Statements of time devoted to various activities and military service are approximate; national organizations mentioned refer to local chapters unless designated otherwise; in some instances records that were complete in December, 1947, have been supplemented since publication.

The annual publication does not purpose to be a source of academic factual information; it is intended to serve as a practical reference volume of generally accurate information. Working experience of the students is included for the benefit of any who wish to refer to the book for employment.

FOREWORD

Volume XIV of WHO'S WHO AMONG STUDENTS IN AMERICAN UNIVERSITIES AND COLLEGES includes students representing approximately 600 American institutions. Students recognized by the organization and publication are selected by an individual committee at each college and university. The number of nominees acceptable from each school is determined by a standard quota scale based upon enrollment. Nomination lists are submitted with the approval of a member of the college administration or a faculty or other staff member designated to supervise the selection of nominees. A student may be included in the publication only if he is nominated by the college he attends through the regular procedure set up by the organization.

Students eligible for nomination are those classified as juniors, seniors and graduate students. Nominations may be accepted from any school classified in the Educational Directory prepared in the U. S. Office of Education as a four-year degree-granting institution. Nominations are submitted during the fall months, and schools are notified prior to the time nominations are due.

Through WHO'S WHO AMONG STUDENTS IN AMERICAN UNIVERSITIES AND COLLEGES we have tried to add to campus life a democratic nationwide recognition for outstanding effort and accomplishment that would be attainable free of cost to all American college students; to allow each school a quota sufficient to include a fair representation of its best in student achievement each year; and to give these students the practical advantage of a placement service. Prompt support received from the schools when the organization was initiated in 1934-35 and their steady cooperation through fourteen years have made us feel an increasing obligation to offer the colleges and students a program that merits their sincere participation.

H. Pettus Randall.

TOMORROW'S LEADERS SPEAK

A Survey by Billie Jones Mitchell

Material used in the following survey was secured during the last months of 1947 and the first part of 1948.

Of the approximately 7500 students recognized in this volume about forty-five percent are war veterans; about nineteen percent are married; forty-three percent come from small towns, twenty-eight percent from cities, sixteen percent from rural communities and thirteen from suburban communities; sixty-seven percent are earning part or all of their college expenses through employment on or off college campuses; and most of the students selected the particular institution they are attending because of convenience of location.

Student housing was a problem during the 1947-48 school year in seventy percent of the colleges and universities, new building programs being considered sufficient to give later relief in some instances. Forty-five percent of the students would recommend expansion of their schools' accommodations in curriculum as well as housing beyond current plans. Some do not recommend building expansion at this time because of unstable prices and of the primary need for increased classroom facilities and teaching staff. There is a difference of opinion as to whether larger enrollments are permanent.

Ninety-three percent of this group expect to enter work in line with their college training. In order of preference they would like to work in: a private profession, a large business or organization, the Government, a small business or organization, teaching, religious work or social service. Eighty-six percent state that they feel confident of success in their work and attribute this confidence to adequate training, success in past experiences, intention to work hard and do a good job, faith in their ability, genuine interest and enjoyment in chosen fields, determination to succeed, ability to get along with other people, faith in God, general background. Some students, mostly those above the usual college age, already have held positions of responsibility and distinction; but working experience of the majority has been during college years and in military service. Types of employment most often found are student assistantships and graderships, publications work, general office employment, athletic coaching and management, kitchen and dining room work, ministerial work, clerking and selling, musical entertainment and accompaniment, secretarial positions, library work and bookkeeping.

In our economic future, students consider small business vital but on the decrease. Their statements are that small businesses give opportunity for initiative, creative work, individuality, even distribution of capital, stabilization, free enterprise, democracy, individual advancement, maintenance of the middle class.

For employee incentive the following situations are considered most effective: opportunity for advancement, substantial wages, good working conditions, recognition and compensation for work well done, personal satisfaction and interest in work, security, Christian ethical relations, honesty and fairness, mutual understanding and cooperation of employer and employee, individual interest in employee, service of the business or organization to society, pleasant environment, opportunity for initiative and independence, profit-sharing basis, bonus plan.

Seventy-four per cent of this year's students believe our system of national government does not reflect representation of the people to the maximum degree. Discrepancies they list are general disinterest and low percentage of citizens at the polls, electoral college and other election and nomination methods, corrupt politics, racial inequality, pressure groups and lobbies, party politics, self-interest of politicians, machine and boss control, poll tax, public ignorance of government affairs.

Twenty-nine per cent of the students state that they themselves would like to become active in politics.

Following are traits considered most essential to good public officials: integrity, concern for the people's welfare, intelligence, pleasing personality, sincerity, good morals, education, compassion, spiritual-mindedness, unselfishness, leadership, determination, spokesmanship, industry, foresight, diplomacy, specialized training, openmindedness, conscientiousness, courage, political experience.

The general opinion is that Americans have a more wholesome outlook than other people of the world, and George C. Marshall was named the most outstanding individual in world affairs since August, 1945.

Students say that peace in America comes with world peace, and sixty-four per cent believe permanent world peace is possible. They recommend: strengthening of the United Nations Organization; a federal world government with complete participation; active cooperation and compromise among peoples of the world; general education of all people for peace; basic principles of Christianity; leadership by the church and unification of all people through religion; military preparedness; economic security for all nations, necessitating our aid to needy nations.

A majority believe that the worldwide influence of the church will increase and that its function will be to foster brotherhood, to form the basis of our social order, to set standards of moral conduct, to act as a stabilizing agent, to exert a strong influence for good, to hold the family together, to destroy fear and conflict; some state that its influence is declining and will become more insignificant, is inadequate to meet present-day needs, must be revived in order to maintain itself. The two religious groups having the largest membership among the students are Catholic and Methodist respectively.

Seventy-two per cent believe that excessive use of alcohol is a general problem and recommend as treatments: public education of harmful biological and mental effects, Alcoholics Anonymous, strict legislation, teaching moderation in the home, enforcement of present laws, individual prohibition, curbing of advertisement, medical treatment, recreational activities, worthwhile objectives in life, social ostracism, increased taxes on production and consumption of alcohol.

The general concensus is that marriages are entered too hastily. When asked to give reasons for the present high rate of divorce, students mentioned: ease of divorce; lack of sex education; changes in society and general instability; lack of advance preparation and planning; immaturity; lack of Christian attitude; lack of mutual understanding; physical incompatibility; romantic and impractical attitude toward marriage displayed in movies, magazines, etc.; financial insecurity; lack of home training; independence of women; selfishness. They believe the best bases for successful marriage are: common interests, love, mutual religious beliefs, similar social and economic background, cooperation or "give and take", financial stability, mutual respect and consideration, common ideals, Christianity, children in the home, intellectual compatibility, companionship, unselfishness, fidelity, tolerance, reasonably lengthy courtships, determination to make marriage successful.

A large majority of students consider popular music a passing record of the times, essential for light entertainment, an outlet for emotional expression, and a part of American culture just as the soda pop, football and the junior prom; a small number say popular music is overemphasized, that it is important but not deserving.

Favorite radio programs were listed in the following order: Fred Waring, Bob Hope, The New York Philharmonic Symphony, Town Meeting of the Air, The Bell Telephone Hour, The Hour of Charm, Fred Allen, Henry Morgan, Lux Radio Theatre, Jack Benny, Information Please, The Hit Parade, The NBC Symphony.

George Gershwin was the favorite music composer of a great majority. Next came Chopin, Beethoven, Berlin, Tschaikowsky, Bach, Debussy, Johann Strauss, Kern, Porter, Brahms, Wagner, Schubert, Herbert, Mozart, Rachmaninoff.

The favorite movie of 1947 was The Best Years of Our Lives. Other popular movies were The Jolson Story, The Yearling, Henry V, Great Expectations, Razor's Edge, It's a Wonderful Life, Welcome Stranger.

This year fiction is the preferred reading material; current news, feature and editorial articles are a close runner-up. Lloyd C. Douglas, again, is the most popular contemporary writer; next in order are Sinclair Lewis, Ernest Hemingway, Somerset Maugham and John Steinbeck. William Shakespeare is the most popular author of the past; Charles Dickens and Edgar Allan Poe take second and third places.

TIME is the number one magazine this year; LIFE is second in popularity and THE READERS DIGEST third. Other favorites are: THE SATURDAY EVENING POST, NEWSWEEK, CORONET, LADIES HOME JOURNAL, THE NEW YORKER, THE ATLANTIC, THE AMERICAN MAGAZINE, FORTUNE and NATIONAL GEOGRAPHIC.
